Arthur Rubinstein scholarship

Amir Ronith

Bach - Prelude too slow but very musical - pretty tone - excellent fugue - first class - rhythm - musicality

Beethoven

fugue very musical but adagio lacking a little of fantasy; the ending a bit weak

Chopin - Nocturne des dur tactless ballade f moll: started quite well - a bit indifferent 2nd theme awful, till now all too quick and uncertain; in general a good technic

Etude es moll - too quick & cold ....

Etude a moll - one can hear only the left hand, too weak and unexpressif

Prokofieff 7, 1st part - excellent in all aspects (sonata) too much pedaling in general

Ravel: Scarbo by Ravel: very well, a bit unexpressif but with total understanding

A candidate for the prise

Antman Rachel

Bach: very musical prelude with a nice tone.
very mature fugue - without exageration, with assurance

Beethoven
Appassionata 1st part - too quickly, without shape unmature, technically "sloppy", without conviction Chopin: Ballade a moll - unmature - pretencious technically "sloppy", failed in the ending Etude cis moll (slow) - dull but not bad Prokofieff
the last part of the 6th sonata - playing [for effect] to impress; not bad technically but "slippy" good & sure memory Debussy
feux d' artifice „confus" played all for shear effect talented but spoiled, excellent memory not a candidate

Ben - Or Nelly

Bach Fugue à moll with the first (clam?) tone plays with musical feeling & with pretty tone - seriously

Beethoven - very musical & serious, a little bit dry one could say

Chopin
Ballade g moll - solid & careful but lacks fantasy, not bad technically, a bit dry as well etude (sixth) not bad but like a student

Ravel : ondine - nice, makes sens but a bit insipid, proper technic but not great

Good pianist, somewhat insipid
A candidate for the 2nd or 3rd prise

Ben - Or Nelly

Bach Fugue à moll with the first (class?) tone plays with musical feeling & with pretty tone -
seriously

Beethoven - very musical & serious, a little bit dry
one could say

Chopin
Ballade g moll - solid & careful but lacks
fantasy, not bad technically, a bit dry as well
etude (sixth) not bad but like a student

insipid, proper technic but not great

Good pianist, somewhat insipid
A candidate for the 2nd or 3rd prise

Rotem Omah

Bach - plays very well but dull, "appliqué" one can sens "labour"

Beethoven 1on adagio & finale - pretty but dull a little bit

Chopin: Ballade f-dur too slow. not bad technically but too prudent/careful Etude e-dur pretty but dull, no poetry in it.

Prokofieff

Ravel: Scarbo - good, excellent technic good pianist, very "appliqué" without personality

A possible candidate

Rugatchevsky Igal

Bach: Fugue well played, Prelude too insipid but great musical feeling on the whole [musicality]

Beethoven: no fugue played correctly but without personal implication, object

Chopin Nocturne c moll - too slow but well intended; dull

Etude des dur (sixths)

Prokofieff - excellent toccata important candidate

Israeli Fourth

Chromatic Prelude (?) - too dramatic but good

Fugue - excellent but as well too dramatic

Beethoven

Appassionata 1st part - interesting, with sens but changing tempi all the time (nevertheless) a good understanding and a good technic

Chopin Ballade g moll with personal understanding very advanced technic, Etude a moll too quick but but excellently hold (the notes?)

Ravel Ondine with (very) beautiful understanding marvellous piano

A candidate for a prise

Simoni Mordehai

Bach - Prelude d dur - with fun & light Fugue with beautiful tone, well organized (?)

Beethoven 101 finale excellent He's a pianist

Chopin: Nocturne as moll - with beautiful tone & in Chopin's understanding a bit too quick.
Etude a moll excellent Prokofieff last movement from 7th (sonata)

brilliant pianist
